Art Unit: 3683

1. Applicant's election without traverse of claims 1-5, 12 and 20 in the reply filed on 2/11/2005 is acknowledged.

2. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 3 is indefinite in that it is inaccurate. The diameter of the piston rod is fixed and cannot be controlled.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) or (e) as being anticipated by Lude.

Lude shows a gas filled shock absorber with a valve in the piston for controlling the pressure within the chambers during operation and a controller, shut off device 14.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3683

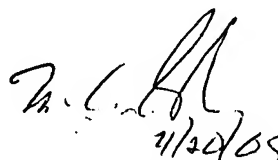

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 12 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lude in view of Grundei et al.

Re- claims 12 and 20, the claimed invention differs from Lude only in the use of two pistons, which form an intermediate chamber. Grundei et al clearly show such a feature, see Figure 1. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have utilized two pistons in Lude in view of the teaching of Grundei et al. as a mere duplications of parts.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kawagoe et al show a controllable gas filled shock absorber. Dill shows a fluid controlled shock absorber. Miller et al. Show a shock absorber controlled by a pneumatic signal.
